To whom it may concern.

This is my true account and testimony.

I suffered with a non-hospital MRSA infection for nearly 10 years before it was properly diagnosed. I had been blessed with life-long perfect health (for over 50 years) before the MRSA infection appeared. It started as a red, itchy spot at the site of a small cut on my lower left leg (midway between my knee and ankle) that slowly spread until I was infected from the bottoms of my feet (and hands) to my head. Only my face remained free from infection.

For almost a year, I was treated by local doctors to no avail. My blood pressure (which previously was always normal) shot up, as did my heart rate. I experienced uncontrollable shaking, with clenched teeth, without being able to stop. I was retaining water and unable to normally urinate and drinking great amounts of water. I was unable to breathe normally and was near death.

I was profoundly miserable with painful, itchy, cracked and oozing skin. Nothing the doctors tried worked and their treatment ended after almost a year. They had no other treatment option to offer me. They had even covered all my limbs with Vaseline and zinc oxide and then wrapped me in bandages which had to be changed every day. This went on for months, but it didn't help. At their insistence, my dear husband spread Vaseline all over the rest of my body and wrapped me in sheets.

Friends and family didn't think I'd live long, though they didn't tell me that. At this point, a good friend of mine recommended I contact Donna Crow at Fountain of Life Healing School. My friend had been exposed to Donna for years via the Internet and had seen her help many people through her teaching and thought she might be able to help me.

The doctors that had been treating me said they could do no more for me and made an appointment for me at UC Davis of California (in two weeks). That was when I called Donna Crow at Fountain of Life Healing School. When I called Donna she was very welcoming and instantly informative. She had already studied the subject of MRSA and was immediately able to point me to recently published scientific research on a natural solution. With that information I was able to put together a natural self-treatment for myself. She clearly stated that she was not a doctor and could not diagnose or prescribe and required me, right from the start, to take responsibility for my own choices, which I did.

I quickly applied the natural food based treatment I had put together, based on the research, and immediately began to get relief. I was amazed! In the next two weeks, my skin cleared up . . . no swelling in my body, no high blood pressure, no body shaking, and I could breathe normally, and everything returned to normal. I did still have some itching, but I kept up with my natural treatment.

At my two week UC Davis appointment with the dermatology center they were amazed at my almost total recovery. I told them what I had been doing in the last two weeks and showed them the photographs that were taken before I started on my home self-treatment. The UC Davis dermatology doctor said it looked good and suggested I take (insisted really) a Kenalog injection for any itching. I finally agreed. He said to come back for a check up in 3 months. They found no need to give me any treatment except to recommend I use a good skin lotion.

I called them back and canceled my check up because I had no rash or symptoms. I did take 1 more Kenalog injection (locally, where I live) and that was over two years ago! I must say I was disappointed that the UC Davis doctors weren't at all interested in the treatment I used that was so spectacularly effective. In fact they dismissed it, telling me I would never get rid of it. I beg to differ. It took months to win the battle, but I did it. That appointment at UC Davis was in June 2007; three years and three months ago, and I am fine.

Without Donna's most valuable knowledge of recent scientific research regarding natural products and MRSA, it is a very real possibility I would not be here at all. I am so thankful for Donna's research skills and knowledge base, and her kindness and always being available to me. Her emotional support and encouragement always buoyed me up and helped strengthen me during that incredibly challenging time. When I would call her she was always kind and encouraging. She never sent me a bill, or required me to pay for her most valuable time. I did send her a donation, but she didn't ask for it, or require it.

In my opinion, what they are doing at Fountain of Life Healing School is a unique and greatly needed ministry. In addition to sharing research with me, she prayed with me and stood with me as a believer. I hope you will give serious consideration to supporting their work.

Sincerely
Carolyn Mulholland
